VOL. VI.--NO. 46. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., FRIDAY, OCT. 15, 1869. WHOLE NO. 306.

Irkutsk is the capital of Eastern Siberia. There are numbers of Chinese, American and Russian merchants there. The same evil exists in this country sounds fearful to the stranger. The truth is, however, that there reign peace, order and prosperity under the sceptre of the Emperor. Doubtless the majority of the inhabitants have been transported here on account of their crimes, or are the descendants of criminals. Indeed, all are of this character, with the exception of some idolaters established in the country from the immemorial. Their conduct nevertheless is good, and their loyalty well known. The law of Irkutsk is governed by just laws, and tranquillity reigns within its walls. During the past year, however, on account of the great scarcity of provisions, troubles have been experienced, and murders committed, but the guilty have not escaped the hands of Justice.

Most of the inhabitants are Russian; there are few idolaters. Chinese and Mongolians are also found there; and in the environs are many members of the sect of "Observers of the Sabbath," known by the name of "Soubatniki." But there are fewer Jews here than in Western Siberia. They are dispersed in the towns and villages. There are no entire communities except in the towns of Tobolsk, Omsk, Tomsk by the Sea, and East Irkutsk.

The great majority of our co-religionists in Siberia are descended from Jews who lived in Volhynia (Northern Russia). Some come from the Western Russian provinces and from Poland. These for the most part are well posted in the Talmud and in Jewish law and usage. There are no rabbis or instructors in Siberia. The "Schochetim" or slaughtering priests, rabbis, judges, officials and instructors of the Jews, The Portuguese "minhag" is followed in all the Siberian synagogues. A good custom exists among them which has become a second nature. The children from their birth speak only the language of the country, which is Russian. Thus the Siberian Jew is not humiliated in the presence of the inhabitants of the country, as there is no defect to be found in his speech. On this account they applied a sou-brique to their co-religionists coming from the interior provinces. These latter do not generally get on well, as they are not acquainted with any kind of employment, and are different manners and customs. They bring with them their habits and books of "Hassidim," and although in their own country, they do not pass for learned men, they are here "Angels of the Lord" and are sought after for sacred instruction. Those who come from the West, from places nearer to the influence of European civilization, on arriving in Siberia, shake off little by little the yoke of their traditional religion, through their fear of the sect already mentioned. Residing in the midst of the primitive inhabitants of the country who are idolaters, they constantly busy themselves with collecting angels and ignore what is true among earthly men. Let us the societies which scatter books and instruction among us turn their attention to their brethren located in Siberia in order to disperse the obscurity which envelops their spirit.

It is not thus in the district of Irkutsk. There obtains a different order of things, thanks to a very energetic and able man who inspires all the Jews of the province. We refer to the wise and respected M. Jacob Dombrowski, of the province of Kovno, a wealthy merchant, and sincere friend of his people and the sacred language. He does much good to those who ask his aid, and enlightens those who listen to him. Formerly there was no Jewish Cemetery here. By his influence the necessary permission was gained. He has introduced some good regulations in the community and in the house of prayer. He also fulfils gratuitously the biblical duties. All disputes of interest are brought before him, and by his gentle words and great wisdom he reconciles the parties. He is assisted in the government of the community by his worthy sons-in-law, M.M. Leeb and Jacob Libowitz, known in the province for their charity and kindness. —J. R.

THE PRUSSIAN ARMY.—From January 1st, 1862, till same date 1868, there were in the entire Corps d'Armée of the Prussian and North German Federal armies 16,575 volunteers, including one year. Of these 12,590 belonged to the infantry; 1,691 to the cavalry; 1,806 to the artillery; 445 to the pioneers; and 103 (since 1865) to the train. The one year's service being completed, 7,136 volunteers were dismissed with a certificate of qualification to act as officer; 2,413 with that of under-officer and 5,849 without any qualification involving promotion. Before the completion of the one year's service, 805 were dismissed or died. Two hundred and seventy-nine remained in the service after the expiration of the year, in the hope of obtaining advancement—that is 79 in the infantry; 19 in the cavalry; 45 in the artillery; 135 in the pioneers; 142 were in the train. Of the 16,575 volunteers, 1,475 came from the public service, 2,475 from students, 7,549 came from masters and gymnasiasts, 1,705 were farmers and traders, 3,170 engaged in agriculture, 716 physicians and 665 apothecaries; the occupation of 464 was not stated in the returns.

POPULATION IN INDIA.—A census of Oude taken last February, shows that the population is 11,220,747, instead of 8,000,000, as was always estimated. Of these only 1,196,781 are Mahometans, 6431 Christians, and 10,092,735 Hindoos. This raises the population of India without the Federated States, to 156,000,000, and of all India to 205,000,000, estimating Bengal at only 38,500,000.

PLAY-BILL LITERATURE.—Bill literature is a source whence new words spring into use. The theatrical bill advertises a performer who has not only "a Gyras," but who is described as the "exclusive property of the lessee." This is like the phrase that used to be applied to runaway slaves.

TENNISON has a printing office in his house, and sends his works to his publishers abroad, in print.

Aus dem Leben Meyerbeers.

Glacomo (Jacob) Meyerbeer wurde am 5. September 1792 in Berlin geboren. Sein Vater Jacob Herr, von Frankfurt a. M. nach Berlin übergesiedelt, hatte hier eine Zuckerraffinerie gegründet und war, in Folge kluger, kaufmännischer Betriebsamkeit, schnell zu Glück und Reichtum gelangt. Die Mutter Meyerbeers, die noch gegenwärtig lebt, Amalie Herr, kam aus der hochangesehenen Familie Wolf aus Berlin. Für alles Schöne empfänglich, hat sie durch ihre feinen Gesichts- und Geysteseigenschaften den segensreichen Einfluss auf die Jugendentwicklung ihres berühmten Sohnes gehabt. Schon in früherster Kindheit zeigte sich in diesem die ersten Spuren eines merkwürdig entwickelten Musiksinns, indem der kaum dreijährige Knabe da und dort einmal gedehnte Melodien zu Hause ohne jede Anleitung bewundernswürdig richtig mit der rechten Hand auf dem Klavier nachschloß, während die linke in selbstgeschundenen Harmonien dazu accompanirte. Diese Kunstbegabung erschien den erstaunten und hochgeachteten Eltern wie ein Wunder. Der Knabe aber, welchem der Eindruck, den diese Beschäftigung hervorbrachte, nicht entging, da sie ihm von allen Seiten Lobfloskeln und Geschenke eintrug, schloß bald zu höherem Berufen und erwarb merkwürdig bald seine Spielfamern mit Trommel, Geige, Triangel, Becken und anderen Kinderinstrumenten um sein Klavier, um mit ihnen Auführungen in größerem Stile zu unternehmen, wobei er, gleichsam in Vorübung seines künftigen Berufs als General-Musikdirektor, zugleich als Lehrer und Dirigent fungierte. Den Unterricht in den elementaren Gegenständen erhielt Meyerbeer, der damaligen Elite der vornehmen Familien gemäß, von Privatlehrern im elterlichen Hause, und daran schloß sich sofort der Unterricht im Klavierspiel. Die Fortschritte des aufgeweckten Knaben in allen Disciplinen waren rapid, namentlich aber in der Musik. Kaum hatte er beim Klavierspiel die Noten und die Finger in der richtigen Gewalt, als er mit einem wahren Ungestüm des Weiterstrebens, auch bereits in schriftlichen Compositionen sich versuchte, und hier ist es wunderbar, wie richtig, ohne Kenntniß der Harmonielehre, seine Sagart und Schreibeart war, wie wenn ihm sein feines Ohr und musikalischer Sinn die Regeln der Theorie ohne Zutun einzuflößen vermocht hätten. Der Lehrer und der hochgebildete Freundeskreis des Hauses ermunterten die Eltern, das Wunderkind im wahren Sinne des Wortes der Öffentlichkeit vorzuführen. Doch ärgerten die Eltern damit in richtiger Einsicht, daß man dem Publikum nur einen hohen Aufgaben gewachsenen Pianisten vorführen dürfe, und so mußte denn der Knabe bei dem damals berühmten und allgemein beliebten Klavierspieler Franz Zerk, ein gewisser Perleberg, einen Brief von seiner Tochter, worin ihm dieselbe anzeigt, daß sie von ihrem Entföhrer in das Kloster der Bisterrinerin gebracht wurde und um schnelle Befreiung aus ihrem Kerker fleht. Der Vater riefte einen Hausen Glaubensgenossen, die bekanntlich hier auf den Straßen immerwährend herumlungerten, zusammen, und begab sich ins Kloster. Auf dem Wege dahin wurde der Knabe zu einer ganz ansehnlichen Schaar heran, welcher sich auch viele Gelehrten, besonders Studenten, angeschlossen. Die Oberin war, wie es scheint, der Haltung des Kindes eingegeben und führte den Vater des Wunders nach kurzem Vorankommen zu demselben. Als daselbst unter Tränen erklärte, den unfreiwillichen Aufenthalt sofort verlassen zu wollen, die Oberin aber in der Befreiung nicht willigte, rief der Mann seine Glaubensgenossen herbei und im Ru war das Mädchen unter dem Jubelschrei der Menge in die Höhe gehoben und in Freiheit gesetzt. Dies geschah zwischen 7 und 8 Uhr Abends und die Begeisterung wurde sofort in ihre Gemüths Welt eingebracht. Wie Sie sehen, hätte es leicht zu Unthatigkeiten kommen können. Die Entföhrung war wohl von Erfolg gekrönt, aber nichtbedauerlicher wird Jeder zugeben müssen, daß die Oberin abermals ihre außerordentliche Wirkung vor den Klostermauern an den Tag gelegt haben. Die Kloster-Songregationen aber scheinen auch aus den jüngsten traurigen Vorfällen keine Lehre gezogen zu haben, wenn sie noch immer von Märdern jugendliche Judenmädchen der Eiligkeit entgegenführen wollen.

— Aus Wien wird folgende Geschichte über den zur Zeit dort mit außerordentlichem Erfolge im Carltheater gastirenden Tenoristen Gottlieb berichtet: Gottlieb war, bevor er die Kaiserhofkapelle betrat, Cantor in einer israelitischen Gemeinde Deutschlands. Seine wunderbare Stimme verschaffte ihm eine Anstellung beim Theater, und als er raschen Schrittes die Stufen zum Tempel der Kunst emporschritt, ward er seinem Glücke untreu und trat zum Christenthume über. Von diesem Tage an wich sein Glücksernte von ihm, er wurde schwermüthig, empfand die bittere Reue, und endlich entschloß er sich, zum Judentum wieder zurückzukehren. Ein Jahr lang that er Buße, fastete, ging alltäglich in die Synagoge, und nachdem er wieder in den Bund des Judenthums aufgenommen, fühlte er sich nie neugeboren. Er sang mit erneuerter Lust, es regnete förmlich glänzende Engagementen ein, die Furcht, in Wien zu singen, war mit einem Male verschwunden, er kam, sang und siegte, und als Jude machte er mit dem Juden „Eloah“ das höchste Glück.

Corfu. — Der König von Griechenland beehrte bei seiner jüngsten Anwesenheit auf der Insel Corfu auch die Synagoge in der Hauptstadt Corfu. Die Synagoge war bei dieser Gelegenheit decorirt und in derselben ein Thron errichtet, auf welchem der König saß, während der Rabbiner bei geöffneter Lade eine Tarebe hielt und ein Gebet für den König und sein Haus sprach. (M. Ser.)

London. — Der berühmte Oriental, Herr J. E. Taylor, Bibliothekar für die jüdische Literatur am Britisch Museum, war in Folge von Kränklichkeit gezwungen, seine Stelle aufzugeben. Er hat London verlassen und sich in Berlin niedergelassen. Dem Museum wird es schwer fallen, diesen so fähigen Mann wieder zu ersetzen.

Para. — Die Stadt Para besitzt die einzige Synagoge in Brasilien, obgleich an noch mehreren anderen Plätzen Juden leben.

Nicht zu stellen. Was der Komponist aber aus diesem Inhalt gemacht, das ist groß, erhaben, ja unbegreiflich; kein anderes Meister, keine andere Kunst wäre im Stande gewesen, diesen Inhalt mit einer so unverwundlichen Lebenskraft zu erfüllen, als Meyerbeer es gethan. Robert der Teufel ist keinesweges aus einem Guffe entstanden, wie seine fliegende, insinuirbare Musik, gegenüber dem verwinkelten Textbuche dermaßen machen kann; aber die Composition ist der Erguß einer bewußten und klar waltenden Idee, welche einpfeift im Ganzen wie im einzelnen, im Haupt wie im Nebensächlichen herrscht. So ist es zu erklären, daß das großartige Werk nach und nach, unterbrochen von Reisen nach Berlin, von der Verheirathung des Komponisten und von manichfachen zu erziehenden Familienangelegenheiten, zu Ende kam und sich doch so abgerundet hingestellt. Die Direction der großen Oper zu Paris erhielt das neue Werk wenige Tage vor Ausbruch der Julirevolution des Jahres 1830 und in diesen Tagen der Erregung dachte keiner der sich rasch folgenden Unternehmer (die siegreiche Revolution hatte die allerhöchste große königliche Oper zum Privatinstitut degradirt) daran, es mit einer neuen kostspieligen Partitur zu wagen. Schon wollte Meyerbeer unmutig seine Arbeit zurückziehen, da erklärte sich nach Jahresfrist der damalige Director Dr. Beron, welcher vor Begierde brannte, seine Verwaltung mit einem epochenmachenden Werke bereichern zu machen, bereit, sofort an die Einführung zu gehen. Endlich, nach fast fünfmonatlichen, aufreibenden Klavier-, Gesangs-, Orgel-, Tanz- und Generalproben konnte die erste Aufführung auf den 22. November 1831 festgesetzt werden, und ganz Paris ging diesem Tage mit der größten Spannung und Erwartung entgegen, da es die vollständige Probe gab, ob es einem deutschen Meister gelingen würde, sich im Bereich der Pariser großen Oper zu habituuiren.

Gleich die ersten Takte der instrumentalen Einleitung der Oper erregten das Interesse und zogen dem Publikum, das es vor einem erfindungsreichen Meister sah. Noch anregender wirkte das bunte Gewühl und voll pulsirende Leben des ersten Actes, mit den rührenden Episoden empfindungsreichen Gefühlslebens; und der Beifall verharnte in einer fortwährenden, unerböhrten Steigerung, welche alle Grenzen zu durchbrechen drohte und schließlich in wahrer Fiebergluth das Haus durchraute. Von allen Triumphen fast erdrückt, von den vorangegangenen Anstrengungen erschöpft, umhüllte von den Wohlgefühlen der großen Oper, hatte Meyerbeer ein verriegeltes Papier hervorgezogen und entfaltete, welches er vor wenigen Stunden aus Berlin mit der Befreiung erhalten hatte, es erst nach der heutigen Vorstellung zu öffnen. Wenige Worte waren es, auf die sein Auge fiel, aber es waren die Schriftzüge der geliebten Mutter, welche er an die bebenden Lippen drückte.

Die Entföhrungsgegeschichte eines jüdischen Mädchens hat ihren vorläufigen Abfchluß durch „Selbsthilfe“ gefunden. Es wird hierüber vom 13. August aus Krakra berichtet: Oheim Alend erhielt der Vater des entföhrten Mädchens, ein gewisser Perleberg, einen Brief von seiner Tochter, worin ihm dieselbe anzeigt, daß sie von ihrem Entföhrer in das Kloster der Bisterrinerin gebracht wurde und um schnelle Befreiung aus ihrem Kerker fleht. Der Vater riefte einen Hausen Glaubensgenossen, die bekanntlich hier auf den Straßen immerwährend herumlungerten, zusammen, und begab sich ins Kloster. Auf dem Wege dahin wurde der Knabe zu einer ganz ansehnlichen Schaar heran, welcher sich auch viele Gelehrten, besonders Studenten, angeschlossen. Die Oberin war, wie es scheint, der Haltung des Kindes eingegeben und führte den Vater des Wunders nach kurzem Vorankommen zu demselben. Als daselbst unter Tränen erklärte, den unfreiwillichen Aufenthalt sofort verlassen zu wollen, die Oberin aber in der Befreiung nicht willigte, rief der Mann seine Glaubensgenossen herbei und im Ru war das Mädchen unter dem Jubelschrei der Menge in die Höhe gehoben und in Freiheit gesetzt. GRATITUDE.

There are some virtues which may be considered as constituting the foundations of human character, for without them it would have no stability; such are honesty and truth. There are others, which, though not so essential, are nevertheless elements of that perfection which we regard as the Divine order of the universe. To this latter class belongs gratitude, which may be compared to the decoration of a building of which truth and honesty are the foundations. We should be sheltered from cold, heat and storm, in an unadorned dwelling, but we should miss the embellishments by which art might render it attractive. Gratitude may also be compared to a rare and tender flower, which is of no service in supporting human existence, but fulfills its mission in arousing admiration, and awakening a consciousness of the exceeding loving kindness of that Great Being, who not only amply supplies our physical necessities, but also scatters around us, with lavish hand, objects which charm the senses and refine the mind.

Ingratitude is looked upon as a moral crime. "Black" and "base" are epithets commonly applied to it. Our great dramatist describes it as "sharper than a serpent's tooth"; a happy image conveying an idea that it not only inflicts wounds, but also instills into them a poisonous venom. Ingratitude wounds a sensitive mind, and even deters men from the performance of good actions.

Nature, the great source whence we derive many lessons, at once declares to whom man must first acknowledge Gratitude. Mountains lifting aloft their mighty crests which seem to pierce the clouds; trees, spreading abroad their giant branches, as if anxious to confer on creation a portion of the benefits they have received; streamlets, gushing and sparkling in joyous exultation; rivers rushing onward as if eager to pay tribute to the expectant ocean; flowers, brightening the path we tread, and perfuming the air we breathe, are powerful monitors to humanity. The poet, in a glorious burst of awe and admiration, cries, "Earth, with her thousand voices, praises God."

And shall intelligent sentient being be unmindful of benefits bestowed? Doubtless, some will reply, there are many who have reason to be grateful. The rich, they say, may well be thankful for the bounties of Providence; but as to the humbler classes, the hard-working mechanic, the man steeped in indigence, what cause has he for thankfulness? Ah! matters are more equally arranged than we may perceive at first glance. Let us not be too ready to cast up an account against ourselves. The rich have trials as well as the poor. Many a rich man, after a day's close labor in his counting-house, may return to a childless home, while his poor neighbor may be blessed with loving and beloved offspring, who may in time become his support. Many a rich man is burdened with a frivolous unsympathetic wife, while a poor man is blest with a partner who aids his labors, shares his joys, and lightens his cares. Many a rich man is destined to disappointment in hopes cherished for his children, while the poor man sees his sons rise to honorable positions. The rich man's life is often embittered by the failure of some ambitious scheme, in the elaboration of which he had spent weary days and sleepless nights. These are self-inflicted miseries, it is true, but they are nevertheless severely felt. The rich man is not more grateful for large benefits than the poor man for smaller ones. The amount of gratitude varies according to disposition, not according to amount of benefit.

As exotic plants live in, and draw nourishment from, the atmosphere of the conservatory, whatever the temperature without, so some qualities must be cherished within us, and are but little affected by external circumstances. The sun, pouring its rays on the glass roof, may, perhaps, hasten the plant's growth, as prosperity may render our gratitude more ardent; yet the flower blooms in winter, when almost deprived of solar heat and light; and so may the spirit of thankfulness well up from the depths of poverty.

Let us think of the advantages we really possess instead of the aims which we cannot attain, and we shall be surprised to find how much there is for which we have really to be grateful. Gratitude to our fellow creatures is like mercy "twice blessed"—it blesses him that gives and him that takes—it expands with love the soul of him who renders it, and encourages the heart of him who receives it by offering him an assurance of appreciation—a strong inducement to the pursuit of virtue.

"The liberal soul shall be made fat," says the Royal Philosopher, his heart shall be filled with joy, and his lips tuneful with praise on beholding the good his bounties have effected, and on becoming assured of the affection he has acquired.

But gratitude may be evinced without conferring reciprocal benefits. One way of showing an appreciation of kindness is to make a good use of it. For example, it assisted in business, let us by an honorable manner of conducting it, show that we are worthy of such assistance; if education be bestowed on our children, let us co-operate with their teachers, and endeavor by example and exhortation to impress more deeply the precepts which they instill. It must not be forgotten, that poor as well as rich, have to share the responsibility of this world's work; the rich by finding the means, the poor by carrying out the measures. In this, rich and poor should meet together, the blessed fruits of such unanimity would testify that "the Lord is the Maker of them all."

If we have ourselves been assisted, it is incumbent on us to aid others. This is another mode of displaying gratitude. As the moon receives brilliant light from the sun, and reflects it upon the earth with chastened splendor, so have the humblest the power of doing some little good to others by way of showing appreciation of the benefits conferred on themselves. A good word is so precious that it has been compared to golden fruit; and a gracious demeanor and obliging disposition adorn us more than costly raiment. Let only each do what he can in singleness of heart, and purity of spirit, and make gratitude a guiding principle of all our thoughts and deeds.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY IN AUSTRIA.—A correspondent of the Eastern Budget gives some account of the stand which is being made by the clerical party against the enforcement of the supremacy of the civil power:

"The clericals are still in full retreat, but they still fight desperately for every inch of their old supremacy. A split has occurred among the bishops on the question of the inspection of national schools. The only 'irreconcilable' opponents of the measure are the Bishops of Linz and Brixen, but they are more Popish than the Pope, for the others, including even the Archbishop of Prague, announce that they are ready to accept, with the concurrence of the Vatican, the very restricted functions allotted under the new system to the clergy in educational affairs. The unyielding Bishop Rudiger, on the other hand, still continues to protest against the new laws. Notwithstanding the verdict of the jury which condemned him, and the pardon of the Emperor, he has again made a violent ultramontane speech at a Catholic meeting, which might have led to another action against him if his words had formed a tangible 'corpus delicti' as his printed pastoral did on the former occasion. The Liberals, too, are not wanting in extravagant demonstrations from their own point of view, though it is impossible not to respect the feeling which prompts them. The affair of the Cracow nun has excited in all the provinces of Austria, without distinction of nationality, a strong antipathy against monastic institutions, and resolutions have been passed at public meetings demanding the abolition of all monasteries and convents. The speakers at these meetings overlooked the fact that a special paragraph of the new law of associations, sanctions an exceptional position for religious establishments of this kind, whereby—and this is a matter of the greatest importance in its bearings on the Cracow trial—the inhabitants of convents, etc., are to a certain extent excluded from the rights possessed by the rest of the community. It is also forgotten that in a free State under the protection of the law of associations, it is impossible to prohibit the existence of religious societies. The Government has accordingly adopted the middle course of appointing a commission to prepare a bill for the more effective control of convents."

GERMANY.—Drs. Graetzer and Davidson, both distinguished practitioners at Breslau, Prussian Silesia, have been nominated by the pleasure of His Majesty the King of Prussia, as members of the Medical Council of the North German Confederation, the former to bear the title of Privy Medical Councillor, "Geheimer Sanitätstath," and the latter that of Medical Councillor.

RUBINSTEIN has just composed a grand cantata entitled "The Tower of Babel," which will be executed for the first time in Königsberg, Prussia. At Vienna, during next winter, one of his Oratorios, "Paradise Lost," will be performed.

POLAND.—Cracow, Sept. 13.—A congress of Polish doctors and naturalists attended by members of the universities of Galicia, Posen, and Poland, has been opened at Warsaw. N. Meyer, president of the Scientific Association opened the proceedings in a speech, in which he welcomed the delegates in the name of science and as fellow-countrymen. M. Meyer has been chosen as president, and M. Galenowski, of Paris, as vice-president.

A JEWISH LADY in her hundredth year recently visited the Amsterdam Exhibition, accompanied by her grandson, who was himself a grandfather. She inspected a sewing machine, and threaded a needle without the aid of spectacles.

There are in the United States two hundred and fifty Synagogues, of which thirteen have been established during the last Jewish year.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

(From the Resident Correspondent of THE HEBREW.)

New York, October 5, 1869.

EDITOR HEBREW:—Annually about this time the Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum issues its appeal to the various Congregations of this city, and it is generally liberally responded to. At present, a few Congregations have acted in this matter, and the result is a gratifying one. The Thirty-fourth street Synagogue has the merit of having originated a new and good plan for such occasions. They printed the appeal of the society and several papers with it, upon which was printed various sums from five dollars up to one hundred. They enclosed these papers in an envelope and directed it to their members. The latter would return the envelope with that paper showing the amount he would individually contribute to the holy purpose. In this way about two thousand dollars were contributed by this single Synagogue. The Forty-fourth street Synagogue no sooner heard than adopted this plan, with equal good success. In the Norfolk-street Synagogue about eighteen hundred dollars were offered, and smaller Congregations offered according to their ability, as for instance the Chrystie-street Synagogue, about one hundred and twenty-five dollars.

During the recent Holidays the services in Thirty-fourth street Synagogue were held according to their lately adopted reform, and it seems everybody was satisfied with them.

In the Clinton-street Synagogue Rev. Dr. Aaron Hahn was re-elected as preacher, with a higher salary. The latter gentleman is an able, eloquent and logical orthodox expounder of our holy faith, and is highly esteemed by the members of his congregation, as well as by strangers sometimes visiting the Synagogue he officiates in.

Last Sunday we had occasion to be present at the installation of a new Lodge of the A. O. J. Keshar Shel Barzel. The name of the new star in our beloved Order is Jonathan Lodge; its Most Worthy Av is J. P. Salomon, Esq., attorney and counsellor at law. The ceremonies of initiating the new members were conducted by the Most Worthy Grand Lodge, its presiding officers, Mr. M. Brown, the Grand Nassi, and Dr. Levy, his deputy performing in a solemn manner and delivering the different charges in such a way as must have deeply impressed the candidates with their duties as Israelites and sons of the Keshar Shel Barzel.

In B'nai B'rith circles everything is quiet at present. It is talked of having a Course of Lectures in some Lodges, and of re-opening the B'nai B'rith Library in this city.

There has been organized in this city a Long-fellow organization—a purely Hebrew institution as yet—for the purpose of literary entertainment and debate. This association consists of the right material, most of the members being college graduates. Judging from what we have heard at a visit to their hall, we believe this society will prove a benefit to this city, and arouse our too lethargic youth to some effort in the literary field. We wish a good deal of success to this noble association, whose motto is self-education and enlightenment.

Most respectfully,

VERITAS.

WIESBADEN.—A new synagogue was inaugurated in this charming little city, on the 13th and 14th of August. Here, where a great number of strangers gather annually attracted by the springs and by the munificent scenery of nature, this Jewish celebration was conducted with an extraordinary splendor, not only by the Israelites of our city (consisting of about 100 families) but by the whole Christian population.

This universal sympathy manifested itself already in the concert, given a few days previous to the consecration in the Casino Hall (Orchestra) by the Synagogue-Gesang-Verein (Synagogue-Singing-Society). The greatest artists of Germany, Wachtel and Wilhelm, assisted in the concert, and it was pronounced the most brilliant concert of the season. The King of Prussia was present and remained to its close. In the morning the King visited the new synagogue and donated a considerable fund to the congregation. The synagogue is built in the Oriental style, and is considered one of the finest public buildings in the city. On Friday evening Rev. Mr. Susskind, rabbi of Wiesbaden, took his departure from the old building under the presence of a large concourse of people, amongst which were present the mayor, the royal commissioner, the magistrates, the clergy of all denominations and the invited rabbis.

In solemn procession, accompanied by the military, they moved to the new Synagogue, preceded by the bearers of the Torah-rolls, which were deposited in the ark, under the singing of hymns and psalms by the choir, and after which Rabbi Susskind pronounced the consecration discourse. On Saturday morning the Synagogue was so crowded that not a space was left to move on. People of all denominations were anxious to hear the sermon of the celebrated Dr. Geiger, of Frankfurt, who had been invited to occupy the pulpit that morning. The sermon made such a deep impression on the vast audience, that a general desire was expressed to see it published.

Balls, banquets and other festivities followed, while the free intercourse between the professors of various creeds, gave evidence that the barriers between the people are fast dwindling down. In the Royal Theatre a gala piece was produced in honor of the occasion, the house was specially decorated with flowers and trees. Mehl's opera, "Joseph and his Brethren," was given.

It must be mentioned yet, that at the concert, a prologue composed by a Christian professor, was recited by the director of the Royal Theatre—Archives Universelles.

ITALY.—Signor T., of Trieste, Doctor of Law, a widower and father of a family, has recently abjured Catholicism and embraced the Jewish faith. He underwent the operation of circumcision and took the name of Abraham. He subsequently married a Jewish young lady, Cluadino.

FOREIGN ITEMS.

PARIS.—Society for the Professional Education of Women.—An interesting piece of news comes from Paris that has a claim upon our space, namely the distribution of prizes at the school in the Rue de Turenne, one of the educational institutions under the direction of the Society for the Professional (or more correctly Industrial) Education of Women. The society to which we refer is the well-known Société pour l'Enseignement Professionnel des Femmes, and the meeting took place in the garden of the establishment in the Rue de Turenne, and was presided over by Madame Jules Simon, who was supported on the occasion by Mesdames Millard, Cohn, Morelet, and other ladies whose names are well known in connection with this educational movement.

A great many gentlemen were present—men of science and letters, advocates, and artists. Among others were present M. M. Garnier Pages, Jules Simon, the Count d'Estampes, and Dr. Herbert. The proceedings were opened by Madame Jules Simon, delivering an address, of which we subjoin an extract, to show the basis upon which the industrial and broad, as opposed to the ecclesiastical and narrow, education of women is being advocated and carried out, not only in Paris, but also in other large towns of the French empire. Hear Madame is President, who is a Jewess:

"You will doubtless be surprised, my dear children, to hear that the opening of this institution aroused the most violent opposition. Some people have brought against us the curious complaint, that we not only teach you hygienic, botany, and chemistry, but also show you how to turn to pecuniary profit your knowledge of these subjects. Strange, is it not, that the acquisition of scientific knowledge, and the practical application of that knowledge, should be regarded as blameworthy and hurtful? The profession of sick nurse seems to us to be one of those peculiarly fitted for the mental endowments of women. Pay attention to hygienic, and to the ways of rendering the home prosperous and comfortable; devote yourselves to children, studying their peculiar ways, so that you may the better take care of their health; soothe the infirmities of the old, which is a duty so natural to woman, that we see her performing it in all families where there is such duty to be done—performing it always with pleasure and goodwill, but not always with sufficient light. From this point—the discharge of a common family duty—and the undertaking the profession of a trained sick nurse as a means of gaining a livelihood, there is in respect of fitness only the difference of the instruction you receive here."

Madame Simon concluded her address with the following words:

"In addition to attention to work, which is your necessary future, you must cultivate good morals, of which you have had the precepts of good examples in this place. Do your duty, even when that duty is painful. Labor! and when you find your work too hard, come back among us to recruit your energies (vous reprenez); here you will always find affection, support, and that sweet fraternity which makes life better and more easy to bear.—J. T.

AUSTRIA.—The Emperor has conferred the Grand Cross of the Order of Leopold on Prince Charles of Roumania. His Highness has paid Count Beust a visit, which lasted a considerable time, and which was returned by the Chancellor of the Empire. The Prince has also given a long audience to the two chief Rabbis of this city, when the position of the Jews in Roumania was subjected to a searching discussion. This matter is also said to have been referred to at the interview between Prince Charles and the Emperor Francis Joseph.

The decision of the tribunal of Cracow, dismissing the superior of the Carmelite convent and the two other nuns, also accused in the case of the sister Ulbryk, and the replacement of all three in their convent, has caused the greatest indignation. All hope that the Government seriously meant to punish the delinquents, and prevent the recurrence of such atrocities, is rapidly dissipating itself before the verdict of this character. A curious incident occurred during this trial, which has brought to light a long and bitter animosity existing between the Bishop of Cracow, and the Papal nuncio. The nuncio inculpated had refused to take an oath before giving their testimony, as such oaths were against the more stringent rules of their order. The Judge of Instruction immediately appealed to the Bishop of Cracow, who instantly commanded the nuns to comply with the request of the law, ordering, besides, the priest Plankiewicz, confessor at the convent, to see that no impediment was placed in the way of the judicial inquiry. This line of conduct, harmonizing so well with the Constitution, opened to the nuncio, Mgr. Falcinelli, a point of attack. The diplomatic representative of the Court of Rome, instantly wrote to the Holy See that the behavior of the Bishop of Cracow was most suspicious. He invoked, as a powerful argument, the reproaches which the Bishop addressed to the nuns when first he discovered the manner in which they had treated one of their sisters. These words were, of course, expressions of indignation, only natural at such a moment. But, fortunately, these maneuvers have entirely failed to produce any effect. The Pope, on the contrary, has expressed himself entirely satisfied with the conduct of the Bishop of Cracow, and in no way opposed to a judicial inquiry. Certainly in Austria no one is accustomed to see the Papacy thus leniently contemplate the connections between Church and State.

LONDON.—THE MURDER OF BERNARD ZUSMAN.—Portions of a gold watch have been found in a manure-pit at the Old Post Office Inn, Shrewsbury. They formed part of one of the watches which were in the possession of the unfortunate Birmingham traveler, Bernard Zusman, at the time of the murder, two or three years ago. Both portions of the outer case have been forcibly wrenched off, but only the bottom portion has been found.

BRUXELLES.—In Belgium, as in other countries, Jewish young men attending Universities or Colleges, make the greatest efforts not to be distanced in their studies by their Christian comrades and generally with success. At the last distribution of prizes at the Athenee Royale of Brussels, the Jewish students particularly distinguished themselves, one gaining four first prizes, two second, one general and two accessites. Another carried off three first prizes, two second, one general and four accessites—Archives Israélites.

RUSSIA.—The foundation stone of a new synagogue was lately laid at St. Petersburg. The estimated cost of the sacred edifice is about £35,000, and this sum has been collected among the Jews of the whole Empire. The Government has not given a single rouble in aid of the undertaking.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

A NEW MILITARY COMPANY.—On Thursday last a German Military Company, called the Steuben Guard, was organized with the intention of joining the State Militia. No effort will be spared to render the Steuben Guard one of the best drilled and most effective in the State. Following are the officers elected: Captain, Charles Wachatz; First Lieutenant, Fred. Wickenhauser; Second Lieutenant, Berthold Greenbaum; Secretary, M. Salberg; Treasurer, M. Cohn. The rooms at present occupied by the Guard are on the northwest corner Bush and Montgomery streets.

ELECTION.—At the annual meeting of the Congregation Beth-Israel, held on Sunday last the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Louis Ehrlich; Vice-President, S. Goldman; Secretary, Noah S. Friedberg; Treasurer, M. Silver; Trustees, A. Livingston, A. J. Prager, S. Tichner, J. Prince, C. Hess; Messenger and Collector, T. Faust.

ELECTION.—The Congregation Ohania Shalom elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, S. Hahn; Vice-President, H. Greenberg; Treasurer, J. Baum; Secretary, M. Waterman; Trustees, S. Kline, S. Koshland, L. Laar, L. Longfield, S. Adler; Collector and Sexton, Charles Greenberg.

BASE BALL.—At a regular quarterly meeting of the Glycerine Base Ball Club, the following officers were elected: President, Leon Black; Vice-President, J. Levy, Sr.; Secretary, J. Levy, Jr.; Treasurer, W. Sternheim; Captain of First Nine, J. Lezinsky; Captain of Second Nine, Louis Allenberg.

MR. G. FRANK SMITH, a prominent lawyer of this city, is the regular Union Republican Nominee for Judge of the Fourth District Court. Mr. Smith is eminently qualified for the position he is candidate for, and an enemy to all fanatical Sunday laws.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The engagement of Mr. Edwin Adams proves highly successful. During last week he played "Narcisse." He enchanted the audience by his masterly representation of this most difficult role.

PACIFIC SOCIAL CLUB.—The Fourth Anniversary Invitation Party of this flourishing Club, will be given on Saturday, October 16th, at Turn Verein Hall. Our thanks for complimentary ticket.

ALEMANNIA.—On Saturday evening next, the Sixth Annual Subscription Ball of the above Society will take place at Pacific Hall, and will prove, no doubt, a very recherche affair.

A GRAND MASQUE BALL will be given by the managers of the Mechanics Institute, at the Pavilion, a few days after the closing of the fair.

A gentleman lately applied to us for work, whom we had known a few years ago as a wealthy man. He stated that he had lost his fortune in mining speculations. "If I only," he said with tears in his eyes, "had followed, some years ago, the advice of a friend and taken out an endowment policy, I should now be in possession of a sum of money sufficient to start me in business again." We hope the fate of this unfortunate gentleman will be a warning to all not insured, make them see the purpose of taking out a policy, and wend their steps without delay to the office of Messrs. Miller & Garland, 420 Montgomery street, General Agents of the Equitable Life Insurance Company.

A few evenings ago a great excitement was created at the Pavilion by two ladies upbraiding each other in a very violent manner. The reason of this has come to light. One lady had imported a cloak from Paris; the other had on her dainty shoulders one made by Messrs. Sullivan & Co., No. 14 Montgomery street, which far outshone the other in beauty of style and finish.

PALESTINE.—A Synagogue is now in course of erection in the city of Israel's former glory and future hopes, to which the wealthy Jews in Russia and Poland have contributed with great liberality. A Mr. Rosenberg of St. Petersburg, has given two bronze iron galleries, and a bronze iron gate. The value of the gift is upwards of $500. The same liberal Jew has given, for the use of the Synagogue, a silver Menorah, for the feast of Dedication, weighing fifty pounds. He has also given various ornaments, the cost being about $9000. A pavilion with a tower was erected by another noble Israelite. The Synagogue, when completed, will be one of the finest in the world. Altogether, Jerusalem commences to throw off her robes of mourning, and begins to look cheerful. With the erection of pilgrim's dwellings, schools of instruction, and enforcing industry, Jerusalem to-day gives evidence of future prosperity.

AUSTRIA.—Mr. Henry Bornstein, from America, well known in the literary world by his translations of several eminent scientific works in English and French, has at last settled down in Vienna as proprietor of the celebrated Josefsplatz theatre. The former proprietor, Mr. Perl, likewise our co-religionist, is at once to hand over the house with its "fundus in stractus" to Mr. Bornstein for a sum which none of the European applicants were in a position to lay out. It is said the house will be opened on the first of November by a new piece from the pen of Mr. Mosenthal, the author of "Leah," in which Miss Bateman won her laurels.

At the Sydenham Crystal Palace the Anvil Chorus is to be sung by 8,000 voices, with the accompaniment of bells, anvils and cannon.

The number of homicides in Southern Italy, last year, was 19.84 to every 100,000 inhabitants, or ten times the proportion in England.

The next astronomical sensation announced, is the transit of Venus over the sun's disc, which will occur in 1874.

THE GOOD SAMARITAN.

A good man out in the street one night,
Saw in a small window a feeble light.
He looked in the room and saw a poor wife
Sewing and stitching away for dear life.

O, God! she prayed, what shall I do?
My eyes getting weak and my body too,
My fingers from the needle are sore,
My head sinks down, I can work no more.

The good man quietly went away,
And early on the very next day
At the poor woman's room a box came there,
And nobody knew from whence or from where.

The contents of this box brought help and aid;
No longer sewing weak the poor woman made.
Instead of hard work it was pleasure and play,
And made the poor woman look cheerful and gay.

What was it that brought this wonder about, say?
That transformed hard labor to pleasure and play,
I'll tell all who listen with expectant mien,
It was a WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINE.

A FAMILY MEDICINE.

The "Pain Killer" is a purely vegetable compound; and while it is a most efficient remedy for pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine, even in the most skillful hands. For Summer complaint, or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has, without doubt, been more successful in curing the various kinds of Cholera, than any other known remedy, or the most skillful physician. In India, Africa and China, where this dreadful disease is more or less prevalent, the "Pain Killer" is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, a sure cure.

We have long known the high character of the "Pain Killer," and that it is used with great success and satisfaction in our best families. It is the favorite medicine of our missionaries in heathen lands, where they use it more than all else together for the diseases that abound in those warm climates. It should be kept in every house, in readiness for sudden attacks of sickness.—Chr. Press.

Wiedeman's celebrated Crystals de Paris, or Parisian Lemonade, a delicious refreshing summer beverage, manufactured by Schröder Albrecht & Wiedeman, 113 K street, between Fourth and Fifth, Sacramento.

THE SUMMIT REACHED AT LAST!
IT HAS LONG BEEN A DESIDERATUM WITH A large portion of the public to obtain a light, pure, and palatable beverage, invigorating and healthful in its effects, and which, while embracing all the elements of a popular beverage, should contain no trace of alcoholic properties as to make it a desirable acquisition to Ladies, invalids, and persons not accustomed to the use of alcoholic stimulants. The proprietors of Dr. Henley's ILL Wild Grape-Root Bitters, encouraged by the wonderful success of this celebrated preparation, who pleasure in offering to the public another article, which they are confident will meet with very general favor.

DR. HENLEY'S
SPICED WINE
O. K. BITTERS.
These Bitters are carefully prepared from the choicest Wines of California, and the richest Spices the world affords; they act on the general system; purify the blood; renovate the digestive organs, invigorate their action, and restore their natural tone and power; they stimulate the secretory powers of the liver, regulate the functions of the bowels, give buoyancy to the animal spirits, chastify the body, and health and vigor to the general constitution.
As we are engaged solely in the manufacture of BIT-TERS, we have superior facilities, and can supply the Trade with a better and cheaper quality than any other House on this Coast. Our Bitters are for sale at all responsible Bars and Groceries. Consumers should not be imposed upon with cheap imitations, but demand the genuine article.

WELL TO-DAY, SICK TO-MORROW.

Such is the experience of thousands. Few enjoy continuous health. To what does the occasional invalid attribute his uncertain condition? Not to himself, of course. He lays the blame on the climate, perhaps. It is too hot, or too cold, or too damp, or too dry, or too variable. But does he take the proper course to fortify his constitution and bodily organs against the extremes and changes of which he complains? No. He says, perhaps, that only an iron man could bear such great heat, or such violent cold, or such sudden vicissitudes. Why then does he not resort to the great Tonic and Preventive, which, if it will not make him an iron man, will at least quadruple the capacity of his system to repel all external agencies that tend to produce disease? HOSZTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, taken faithfully according to the directions, will so strengthen the stomach, brace the nerves, tone the liver, and regulate and invigorate the whole animal machinery, that the system, instead of being at the mercy of the weather, and liable to be prostrated by every change of temperature, will become case-hardened, as it were, and almost impervious to climatic influences. It is to this preventive principle that HOSZTER'S BITTERS owe their great popularity in the West Indies, British America and Australia.

SHAMEFUL ARE THE WAYS OF QUACKS.—An examination of one of the articles offered to the Ladies for beautifying the Complexion, said examination being prompted by the statement of a lady that, "using it had made her teeth seem loose," disclosed the fact that it contained a large quantity of a mercurial salt which had probably salivated her. There seems no law to reach such scoundrelism; manufactured by quacks of the first water, made to sell by skillful advertising, and the fraud and stupidity of dealers in drugs and perfumery who recommend an article they can make the most profit out of, the ladies are cautioned to use only such articles for the complexion that they may be certain to be manufactured by some known expert, like the "Crème de Lis," manufactured by Dickey, Pioneer Apothecary.

Karl ungebildig, suche die hellere Farben!
Oder glaubst Du, Hedwig ist wie die andern engherzigen und schwachmüthigen Frauen,
die zu Tausenden die Lebensstrasse unfrucht-bar machen, Männerherzen angreifen, sie beran-schen, sie moralisch entmannen, ihre Ruhe entführen und sie zu einem lebenslangen Kampfe nöthigen, ihnen wie Kistgänger haushälterisch Kassen vorschreiben und für jede fähle Kasse ein Opfer fordern? Hedwig steht oberhalb ihrem Geschlecht, der Geist ein Riese, das Herz eine Welt. Wie sie all die Männer gängelt, die die Geschichte ihres Vaterlandes lesen, wie sie mit starker Hand durch Klippe und Brandung steuert, so ertönen weicher und sanfter die Melodien ihres Herzens; wenn seine Salten berührt werden, so ist sie das gefühlvolle, liebewarme Weib, wenn wir Hand in Hand, Perz an Perz einen Moment von den Kasten des Lebens andrücken und uns gebären. Vor einer Zukunft an Hedwig's Seite machst Du mir nicht bange und riebst Du auch hundert
Ehen herbei, die hier die Liebe schloß und die
Zukunft zertrüß!

Und damit riß Karl die Thüre auf und eilte, als gälte es dem Gewissen oder der Vernunft zu entfliehen, die Treppe hinunter.

Es hatten viele Leute im Audienzsaale des Fürsten Gortschakoff: Deputations patrioti-scher Vereine, Damen in Trauergewändern, Polizeibeamte mit geschriebenen Verträgen,
Offiziere in großer Uniform, Dienstthuende
Adjutanten und Kämmerer, das es dem alten
Mann ganz wirr wird, mitten in diese bunte Menge zu treten, deren neugierige Blicke sich auf ihn, den Neueintretenden richten, und sich und schüchtern drückt er sich in einen Winkel des Saales, die Blicke am Boden und seine Kopfbedeckung in der Hand zer-drückend. Hier entdeckt ihn der Offizier, der ihn herbeigeholt.

Ich werde Sie melden, sagte er und schritt
in's anstößige Kabinett; und zum Erstaunen aller, die da lange schweigend warteten, folgte der Greis bald dem Rufe des Offiziers, der ihm die Thüre öffnet und sie hinter ihm
schließt, sich selbst in deren Nähe auf einen Stuhl werfend.

Es geht ein Geflüster durch den weiten
Saal zwischen den schwarzgekleideten Damen und den Herren vom Civil:

Ein alter Spitzbube, dieser Jude, ein Eylon. So unerträglich ist die dem alten Mann, dem Juden, gewordene Bevorzugung, daß beinahe allen Anwesenden derselbe Gedanke über diese Erscheinung kam und manche den Muth hatten, oder die Unvor-sichtigkeit begingen, ihn an diesem Orte benahe laut auszusprechen.

Mittlerweile war Herr Goldheim in das Arbeitszimmer des Generalgouverneurs von Polen getreten. Vor ihm stand im schilden langen Soldatenrock die imposante Gestalt des alten Feldherrn, in dessen Hände der Gnar die Geschichte des Landes und den Kern seiner Elitetruppen gelegt. Unter dem prunkenden Blicke des gewaltigen Mannes zitterte, an ein solches tot-a-tota wenig gewöhnt, die ganze Form des alten Mannes sah zusammen, der keine Ahnung hatte was ihn aus seiner glücklichen Verborgenheit gerissen und ihn an diesen ihm so unheimlichen Ort geführt.

Sie heißen Goldheim? fragte Gortschakoff.

Goldheim verbogte sich tief.
Sie sind mir als ein ehrlicher Mann empfohlen worden, als ein Mensch von patriotischen Gesinnungen und Einfühlung.

Goldheim's halb entflohenen Leben kehrt wieder zurück; er beginnt wieder die Herrschaft über sich selbst zu gewinnen.

Der Statthalter fährt fort:

Es ist mir gesagt worden, Sie sollen Einfluß auf Ihre Glaubensgenossen haben, wie keiner. Können Sie sich desselben rühmen?

Ich bin, Durchlaucht, nie in der Lage ge-wesen, mich desselben zu rühmen.

Ich wünsche, daß Sie ihre Macht dazu benützen, die Warschauer Judenheit von der schiefen Bahn zurückzuführen, auf die sie fremder Einfluß, irgeleitetes Anschau-gen, falsche Vorurtheile geführt haben.

Es ist ein verdienstliches Werk, das ich Ihnen übertrage, indem Sie möglicher Weise Unglück verhüten würden.

Durchlaucht mögen die Ueberzeugung haben —

Ich will keine Phrasen. Sie sind ein alter Mann und sollten den Muth haben einfach zu bejahen oder zu verneinen. Ich liebe eher einen offenen Gegner, als einen unzuverlässigen Freund. Antworten Sie mir offen, ob Sie Ihre Glaubensgenossen vermögen wollen, die Sache, der sie sich zu ihrem eigenen Nachtheile hingeben, zu ver-lassen und zu einer Regierung zu halten, von der allein sie Heil hoffen können. Daß Sie können was Sie wollen, weiß ich eben so bestimmt, als ich weiß, mit welchem unbesonnenen Eifer und welchem leichtsinnigen Unverstand die Warschauer Juden der russischen Regierung, die sie mit Wohlthaten überhäufte, den Rücken wenden, um in das feindliche Lager, wo sie nur Haß und Verachtung finden, zu eilen!

Guere Durchlaucht geruhen Sie mich zur ungeschmückten Wahrheit aufzufordern, gestatten Sie denn, fürstliche Durchlaucht, die Sympathie der Juden für die Sache der Polen, somit für eine Wendung des alten Zustandes der Dinge zu entschuldigen, ohne sie zu theilen. Die Juden sind in Rußland die Parasiten der Gesellschaft; sie sind nicht allein aus dem öffentlichen Leben ausgeschlossen, sondern aus dem größten Theile des Reiches verbannt und —

Und hier in Polen sind Sie es sogar aus dem größten Theile der Städte — blicken
Sie in die nächsten Gassen, dürfen Sie d'rin wohnen? gäbe die Gemeinde zu, daß Sie da eine Handlung etabliren oder ein Haus kaufen?

Gute Durchlaucht haben gewiß Recht, doch
— und dies ist meine Ansicht nicht, Durchlaucht — doch glaubt man, daß bei einer eintretenden Aenderung der Verhältnisse die
Lage der Juden günstiger würde, und die
Polen, edel und hochherzig, und diese Eugen-den eifersüchtig hütend, uns, die für sie in Seiten der Noth an den Tag gelegte Theil-nahme, durch eine Verbesserung unserer sozialen Stellung in den ehemals polnischen Provinzen lohnen werden.

Ihr seid schlechter Regner, als ich vermuthete, — sagt der Fürst mit einem halben Lächeln, indem er sich auf ein Sopha nieder-läßt und sich in eine bequeme Position bringt, wie Jemand, der Zeit und Luft zu einer längeren Unterredung hat, — oder hat Euch
Gott mit Blindheit geschlagen, um Euch in's Verderben zu führen. Sie sind ein alter Mann und haben gewiß noch die Vorgänge aus dem Revolutionsjahre 1831 vor Augen.
Sie können nicht die Weise vergessen haben,
in der Euch jene Männer begegneten, für die Ihr nun Eure Zukunft einseht, die Miß-handlungen, denen Ihr auf dem flachen
Land, wo die russische Herrschaft auf kurze Zeit abgeschnitten war, erliegen und die Eile, mit denen man Euch hier in dieser Stadt auf einen bloßen Verdacht hin, auf die Anschwärzungen eines jüdischen Böbels, an die
Laternen hing und man Euch endlich mit dem Versprechen Ruhe gab, nach Consolidirung der polnischen Macht Euch aus dem Lande zu jagen!

Durchlaucht, weit entfernt die Ansichten der Mehrzahl meiner Glaubensbrüder zu theilen, wage ich, nur dem Befehle Eurer Durchlaucht, offen zu sprechen, gehorchend, die Bemerkung zu machen, daß jene Juden,
die sich den Reformbestrebungen der Polen anschließen, es in der Ueberzeugung thun, daß sie nicht wie bloße Karrier Steine zu einem Baue fahren, den sie nicht werden be-wohnen dürfen. Wenn sie Gut und Blut, wenn sie Alles daran setzen, was dem Menschen heilig ist und theuer, so thun sie es auf Grund des von einem polnischen Fürsten erhaltenen Versprechens: que ceux qui peris-
sent de la memo mort doivent vivre de la memo vie.

Wenn die Juden darauf ihr Geil gründen, bedauere ich sie. Doch zugegeben, daß sie Euch Eurer Umgebung lohnen, sagt Gortschakoff ironisch, sie werden Euch in allen ih-ren Städten, in ihren bis jetzt unentwikelten Gassen aufnehmen, sie werden Euch, statt den Fuß auf den Rücken zu setzen, den Bruderfuß geben — glaubt Ihr, es werde jemals der Bahrtag kommen, daß die Polen ihren gewaltigen Befieger zu besiegen und hier in diesem Relche, wo der russische Adler horstet, Ihr Banner aufpflanzen werden?

Der Fürst richtete sich auf.

Mit einer eisernen Hand werde ich die Polen packen, sagte er, ich werde ihre Kraft ge-malmen und ihre Bestrebungen lähmen.

Was je eine Waffe trug für's Vaterland, je ein Lied sang oder ein Gebet flüsterte, je einen Gedanken hegte, von Freiheit und Unab-hängigkeit, wird ausgerottet werden.

Dorthin, wo das Leben aufhört und die
Natur in Eisklumpen zusammenfriert, werde ich jene einbetten, die jetzt brennenden Kopfes entgegen rennen. Ich werde ihren
Wohlfstand vernichten, Polen in ein großes
Gefängniß verwandeln und ein fürchterliches
Gericht halten über die Schuldigen!

Durchlaucht, sagt der alte Mann, eingeschüchtern durch die Festigkeit, in die der Ge-neralstatthalter versetzt, ich bitte zu bedenken, daß ich nicht meine Gesinnungen vertrat.
So denkt die Jugend und Unerfahrenheit.
Gewiß, die Illusionen werden zertrümmern.

Beim ersten Kanonenschuß, der in Warschau einschlägt, ich weiß es, aber dann wird die späte Reue nichts mehr fruchten, dann wird der Richter sprechen und der Henker arbeiten. Um eben dieß Blutvergießen zu ersparen und meine Gefängnisse für gefahrlichere Verschwörer frei zu halten, habe ich Sie herbeigeholt. Nun wissen Sie, um was es sich handelt. Sie haben Verstand, Erfahrung und Einfühlung, handeln Sie nach Einsicht.

Und damit verabschiedet der Statthalter den alten Mann, der rücklings die Thüre er-reicht, aus den giftigen Blicken Jener empfangen, die als Anhänger der polnischen Sache da glaubten, der Jude habe dem Fürsten irgend einen Hochverrath hinterbracht.

Im Antichambre des Fürsten wartet ein mit Orden reich decorirter Polizeibeamter auf das Erscheinen Goldheim's. Raum seiner ansichtig geworden, ergreift er ihn heftig am Arme und zieht ihn in den dunkelsten Winkel des weiten Saales.

Sie kennen mich nicht mehr? redet er ihn an.

Nein Herr, erwidert Goldheim, sein Ge-sicht prüfend.

Ich habe eben hier erfahren, daß der
Mann d'rin im Kabinett des Statthalters, Goldheim heiße, ehemals in Wilna lebte, einen Sohn und eine Tochter habe, und in der X Straße wohne. Ist es so?

Ja.

Folgen Sie mir.

Unten im großen Hofraume angelangt,
fuhr er fort:

Sie kannten einst einen Beamten der Dank, der in Folge eines leichtsinnigen Lebens eine bedeutende Geldsumme unterschlug und am Vorabend einer angesagten
Kassarevision voller Verzweiflung zu Ihren Füßen stürzte, weinend Ihnen seine Lage schilderte und um Hilfe flehte, die sie ihm voller Edelmut und Hochherzigkeit augenblicklich bewilligten?

Das war Herr Anstöß.

Der bin ich, und schäme mich glücklich jetzt die Wohlthat zu vergelten, die Sie mir da-mals in so hohem Grade erwiesen. Ich habe eben eine Entdeckung gemacht, die mir das Schicksal Ihrer Familie in die Hand gibt.
Sie haben mich vor fünfzehn Jahren geret-tet, ich rette Sie jetzt.

Ich verstehe Sie durchaus nicht, betheuerte
Goldheim verwundert und erschrocken.

Keine Verstellung, Freund. Sie sehen, daß ich es wohl meine. Ich hätte können die zufällige Entdeckung an hoher Stelle rapportiren, mir eine reiche Belohnung oder Beförderung holen und Sie an's Bein stel-lern. Daß ich es nicht that, möge Ihnen als Beweis meiner aufrichtigen Gerechtigkeit dienen.
